DETAILED ACTION

Note: This is in response to an Amendment filed 02/21/2007. A timely filed terminal disclaimer has been made of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nash (U.S. 5,938,672).

Note in figures 1-6 of the patent to Nash, discloses the method steps including inserting a surgical instrument (20) into a patient, wherein the instrument (20) having a liquid jet lumen (86) for creating a high pressure liquid therethrough and a evacuation lumen (88) for suction of tissue fragments and debris from the distal end of the instrument (20); driving, contacting, cutting a rotatable component (working head (32)) with a selected tissue (14) of the patient, wherein a rotatable shaft (42) coupled to the rotatable component (32); wherein the selected tissue can be bone; and supplying a sheath (24) surrounding a portion of the rotatable shaft (42).

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 02/21/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., the use of liquid jet to drive rotation of any components) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). With respect to claim 1, given its broadest reasonable interpretation. Nash's device considered teach or suggest driving rotation of a rotatable component of a surgical instrument with liquid jet as recited in claim 1 due to original claim 1 as recited by applicant does not require the use of power liquid jet causes rotation of surgical instrument. The Examiner disagrees with Applicant's remarks and has maintained the grounds of rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Nash '672 for the reasons as set forth in the previous office action.

Conclusion

1. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of
